Jing Farrelly's background brings knowledge of Ireland and China together with technical skills learned through her academic studies and insights gained from her wide-ranging experience in many sectors. Jing holds a Master's degree in Health Informatics from Trinity College Dublin, in addition to two primary degrees earned from Australia and China.

She founded Zatino Group in 2015 with a focus on travel & tourism, immigration, recruitment, and business investment. The travel and tourism branch of the business offers unique and authentic experiences to tourists, not only to the main visitor attractions but also to explore hidden gems in Ireland. Jing is a pioneer in providing fundraising services to Irish charity organizations through the Immigrant Investor Programme (IIP). She also offers immigration consultancy, relocation and settling packages for foreign investors considering investing in Ireland.

In 2022, Jing participated in the Green for Micro initiative and gained insightful knowledge about Green Public Procurement, which provides a significant advantage in the bidding process with government tenders.

In 2023, Jing completed a comprehensive Certificate in Immigration Law and Practice from the Law Society Ireland. This course, which provides an in-depth analysis of immigration law and its application in Ireland, has further strengthened her expertise in immigration consultancy. It equips her with the ability to identify various visa and stamp classes available in Ireland, outline effective immigration solutions for clients, and assess immigration risks, among other skills.

Providing early stage female entrepreneurs, living in rural Ireland, with the knowledge, support and networking opportunities to meet and even exceed their current aspirations.
